The Junction, Colo. an Atlantic port since March 13, The navy department announced today that she was last reported at a West Indies island March 4 and that extreme anxiety is entertained as to her safety. The vessel was bringing a cargo of manganese from Brazil.

Maurice Gettschalk, United States consul-general at Rio Janeiro, was the only civilian among the passengers on the collier, the others being two naval lieutenants and 54 naval enlisted men returning to the United States. The Cyclops was commanded by Lieutenant Commander G. W. Worley, United States Naval Reserve Force.

Two Engines Damaged.
The Cyclops left the West Indies with one of her two engines damaged, but the department said this fact would not have prevented her from communicating by radio and all efforts to reach her by that means have been unsuccessful. A thorough search of the nourse which she would have followed in coming to port has been made and continues, it was announced. There have been no reports of German submarines or raiders in the locality in which the collier was, the department's statement said. The weather had not been stormy and could hardly have given the collier trouble.

The statement follows:
The U. S. S. Cyclops, navy collier of 19,000 tons displacement, loaded with a personnel on board of 15 officers and 221 men of the crew and 57 passengers, is overdue at an Atlantic port since March 13. She last reported at one of the West Indian islandary many forms and the college of the on March 4, and since her deor information concerning her has been obtained. Radio calls to the Cyciops from all possible points have heen made and vessels sent to search for her along her probable route and

No Reason is Known. "No well-founded reason can even to explain the Cyclops being overdue, as no radio communication with or trace of her has been had since leaving the West Indian port. The weather in the area in which the vessel must have passed has not been bad and could hardly have been the Cyclops' trouble. While a raider or whomever outled he responsible for Cyclops' trouble. While a raidet or submarine could be responsible for her loss, there have been no reports that would indicate the presence of either in the locality in which the Cy-was known that one of the two engines of the Cyclops was injured and that she was proceeding at a re-duced speed with one engine com-pounded. This fact would have no effect on her ability to communicate by radio, for even if her main engines were totally disabled, the ship would still be capable of using her radio

At the top of the week's schedule is inal disposition of the army draft, sedition, sabotage and wheat price legislation. The draft bill, passed yesterday by the house, changing the basis of quotas from state populations to the number of men in Class I, has right of way. It will be returned to the senate tomorrow.

A conference report on the sabotage bill, with its severe panalties for de-struction of war materials or inter-ference with war industries, is ready for submission, and with provisions regarded, respectively, as prohibiting and sanctioning workmen's strikes on war jobs eliminated, further contro-versy is unlikely. The entire allied line in Belgium and France is holding firm.

Nowhere have the Germans been able, notwithstanding the great numbers of men hurled against it, especially that portion in Flanders where the British are holding forth to gain an inch of ground. Field Marshal Haig's order that no more ground be ceied is rigidly being complied with, as is attested by the thousands of German dead now lying before the British positions southwest of Ypres, where it is the ambition of the high German command to break through and envelope Field Marshal Haig's forces and gain an open highway toward the English channel.
